Crash Leaves Man Critical

A Lincoln man was reported in critical condition at Bryan Memorial Hospital early Saturday morning as the result of a two-car collision at 56th & R streets here.

Police identified the man as Melvin L. Waters, 51, of 1104 So. 37th. An attending physician said Waters' chances of survival were "none," police said.

Waters reportedly received a brain concussion from the accident. Police said he was thrown to the right of the car's front seat on the first impact and thrown to the floor under the dash when the car struck a tree in the yard before coming to a stop.

Police said his head evidently hit a heater in the car where a piece of the heater was broken off. The tree the auto hit was carried with the car until it stopped.

The driver of the second vehicle, Rodney G. Rehm, 18, a University of Nebraska student from DeWitt living at 1245 No. 16th in Lincoln, was also being treated for a possible concussion, it was reported.

Gary B. Schneider, 19, also at 1245 N. 16th, a passenger in the Rehm car at the time of the crash, was also injured in the mishap, officials said.

Schneider was held overnight at the University of Nebraska Student Health Center where his condition was described as "fairly good."

The Waters vehicle, northbound on 56th, collided at right angles with the Rehm car that was westbound on R. Stop signs guard 56th at the intersection.

Police said the autos evidently collided with great impact. The Waters car continued into a yard on the northwest corner of the intersection where he was pried from the car.

The Rehm vehicle rebounded to the right onto 56th where it sideswiped a stopped auto driven by Edward L. Cooley, 43, of Walton.

47 Viet Cong Fall To Guns Of GIs In Fierce Delta Fight

Saigon (AP) — An American river task force fought a fierce 8½-hour battle with Viet Cong troops in the marshlands of the Mekong Delta Friday, the U.S. command reported Saturday.

Headquarters said 47 members of the main force Viet Cong unit were killed in the fight 51 miles southwest of Saigon in which the American forces called in air strikes, artillery and helicopter gunships. U.S. losses were reported as eight killed and 23 wounded.

It was the second such clash in the area in three weeks.

U.S. warplanes kept up their intensified air raids against North Vietnam Friday with strikes at bridges and rail facilities north and south of Hanoi.

Oil Dump Too

U.S. planes blasted the Tien

Nong fuel dump six miles northwest of Haiphong Thursday, cutting another target from the forbidden list in North Vietnam.

Storage tanks at Tien Nong were estimated to hold 700 tons of oil for the Communist war machine.

U.S. fighter-bombers hit them for the first time Thursday in one of 134 missions that again centered primarily on an area of Haiphong, Ho Chi Minh's principal port, and once-exempt bridges in a zone ranging as close as 10 miles to Red China's frontier. Returning pilots said the smoke soared 10,000 feet.

West Of Camp

The Mekong Delta action was only 14 miles west of a base camp of the U.S. Army's 9th Infantry Division and within five miles of the area where the Navy three weeks ago suffered its greatest combat casualties of the Vietnam war — three dead and 59 wounded.

Shortly after noon Friday, a company from the 9th Division ran into a Communist force and an exchange of small arms and automatic weapons followed.

Two hours later two more companies of American infantrymen — more than 300 men — joined the embattled unit. By 5 p.m. another 300 troops were put ashore from armored landing craft in efforts to block a Communist retreat.

The only Navy casualty was one sailor wounded.

Waterfront Banned

Still high on the restricted list of U.S. targets is Haiphong's waterfront, though pilots have bombed the city's power plants and cut its four major bridges in an intensive effort to block transshipment of the incoming supplies.

Defense Secretary Robert S. McNamara, who does not always see eye to eye with the Joint Chiefs of Staff, told Washington newsmen last week that hitting the port would be "a risk that I don't believe we should undertake at this time."

The U.S. command announced one plane, an Air Force F105 Thunderchief, was shot down Thursday and its pilot is missing.

—Lower Enrollment Cuts Income— NU Not Filling Staff Vacancies ... Temporary Posts Affected

By LUCILLE HOWARD
Star Staff Writer

Where University of Nebraska appointments are unfilled "they won't be filled" because the income from tuition is less than anticipated, according to Vice Chancellor Dr. Merck Hobson.

However, the University also is expected to be overstaffed by legislative measurements in the 1967-68 school year, Hobson acknowledged.

As a result of the fall enrollment failing to meet projections of 18,500 students, NU apparently will be both underfunded and overstaffed, by yardsticks used by the Legislature.

The last estimate given to the Legislature for 1967-68 budget considerations was just about 500 over the actual fall enrollment of 18,004.

Under the Legislature's program concept of budgeting, all income from tuition goes into the instructional budget. Tuition from 500 more resident students would have added $117,000 to the fund.

'Obviously A Problem'

The result of less tuition than anticipated "obviously will create a problem," Hobson, dean of faculties, declared. Because the income will not be available, some positions cannot be filled.

However, he pointed out, the University has a "self-balancing budget." The number of positions to be left vacant will be determined by the various departments as they can hire only as many persons as the individual department budgets can afford.

Part-time and temporary appointments probably will be affected most, Hobson said. "With appropriate modifications on our part-time personnel, we will be able to meet the budget designated."

Smaller Workload

Even though the number of full-time equivalent faculty persons will not be as high as provided by the Legislature due to the lack of funds, existing personnel probably will carry a smaller workload than state senators intended, according to the vice chancellor.

The Legislature denied the NU Regents' request to reduce faculty workload to a 478 student credit hour production and set a required average of 530 student credit hours.

"But the average will be about 500, which it was a year ago," Hobson said. An average of 500 credit hours was used in the preceding biennium budget allocations, he added.

Figures Delayed

It will also be some time before the actual shortage of tuition is computed, reported legislative fiscal analyst George Dworak.

Based on the 18,500 students estimated, some $6,658,000 was budgeted as income to be raised from tuition, for 1967-68, according to Glenn Smith, director of budget and systems planning.

NU Regents had counted on significant student population increases to help fund the $98,662,406 1967-69 biennium budget request. Original enrollment predictions announced a year ago when the request was finalized were given as 19,200 students in 1967-68 and 20,600 in 1968-69.

The total operating budget approved by the Legislature and adopted by the Regents is $85,989,795 with $51,204,797 to be provided by state funds.

Matches, Jack-O'-Lantern, Children Said Fires' Causes

Firemen reported two fires Friday which were apparently caused by children playing with fire.

A small child playing in a closet with a jack-o-lantern and candle started a fire that did "considerable" damage to the Edward Van Velson home at 1503 Dakota.

The fire gutted a closet and spread to a bedroom.

Mrs. Van Velson said she had scolded her son Carlin, 5, earlier in the day for lighting a candle in the gas flame of her kitchen stove.

She explained she was dozing later at the time of the fire and was awakened when Carlin came crying to the bed. At this time, she said, she smelled the smoke and telephoned firemen who extinguished the blaze.

At 1834 Mindoro a small child caused considerable damage late Friday afternoon when he started a fire by playing with matches.

Fire department officials reported that the child ignited cartons, furniture and beds in the blaze that completely gutted one side of the basement at the Thomas Beal residence.

Smoke damage to the basement and upstairs was considerable. The fire department gave no estimate on amount of damages.

Planes, Cars Are 'Found', Added To County Tax Roll

By GERRY SWITZER
Star Staff Writer

Approximately $1 million worth of motor vehicles and aircraft have been placed on Lancaster County's tax rolls for the first time, bringing in some $40,600 in tax dollars.

Since December of last year, routine reviews on the part of the assessor's office and inquiries and complaints on the part of taxpayers have turned up $477,000 worth of aircraft not previously taxed and $575,565 worth of motor vehicles not being reported for taxation.

According to the county assessor's office, the unlisted airplanes were discovered by checking the registration lists of aircraft provided by the State Aeronautics Department and following through as to whether these planes were listed on personal property schedules.

May Find More

John Auer of the State Aeronautics Department said that more of the untaxed planes may be discovered as soon as data processing completes and furnishes to his office copies of all planes registered with the Federal Aeronautics Administration.

Auer said it was possible for people to fail to register with the state but there "is no way they can avoid" registration with the federal aeronautics administration.

LB567, passed by the last session of the Legislature, may also aid in tracing some previously untaxed planes since owners must register annually both themselves and the aircraft, Auer said.

Previously, a bi-annual registration was all that was required and there was no enforcement machinery. Auer said the new use of the FAA lists will result in double checking since the counties will be asked to certify to the state that those on the FAA lists are on the tax rolls.

Dealers' Cars

A review of all motor vehicle dealers revealed that many motor vehicles licensed with dealers' plates were not included on the business inventory of the dealers.

According to the law, dealers may obtain plates for the cars they handle without paying the motor vehicle tax paid by individual owners at the time licenses are obtained.

However, each car licensed with dealer plates is subject to taxation as part of the motor vehicle dealer's business inventory on which he is taxed at the same rate as individual owners.

The discrepancy lay in that the half million dollars' worth failed to show up either place, officials said.

Omahan Threw Crutches Over Fence: Crippled Man Saves Tot

From Press Dispatches

Omaha — Doctors at Childrens Hospital here Friday credited a one-time polio victim with saving the life of a three-year-old Omaha boy who was being strangled by his jacket while suspended from playground equipment at the child's home.

Leaning on a pair of crutches, Arlan Greve, 26, looked out of the back window of his home and spotted the motionless body of little Dean Alexis Zerbe hanging from the gym set.

Young Zerbe is the grandson of U. Alexis Johnson, United States ambassador to Japan and the son of Mr.

and Mrs. Mason Zerbe Jr.

Greve, a laboratory technician at Methodist Hospital, yelled for help but got no response. He made his way through the yard to the wire fence which separates the two properties. The gym set is close to the fence but he was unable to reach it.

Though stricken with polio 15 years ago, he threw his crutches over the fence and then leaned backwards on the fence until his weight plunged him into the next door yard.

"I don't know how I got up or got the boy down," he recalled. "I usually can't do that sort of thing."

He said the hood on the jacket which Dean was wearing had caught near the top of the gym set and the jacket choked him.

Greve said the boy was blue-faced and stiff when he got him down but responded to artificial respiration after an unsuccessful attempt at mouth to mouth resuscitation.

Greve said he yelled for help for 15 minutes while giving artificial respiration. He said when he was convinced the boy was breathing well enough he went to the Zerbe home to summon Mrs. Zerbe, who in turn called the rescue squad and other neighbors for help.

Greve and his wife, Barbara, who have two small children, have lived behind the Zerbe's for just two weeks. Greve said he and his wife cleared shrubbery which blocked the view of the Zerbe yard only last week.

By CHARLES MOHR

Dong Ha, South Vietnam—From a high observation tower in the combat outpost of Gio Linh, movement could be seen in the famous 600-yard-wide strip which U.S. forces have bulldozed near the 17th Parallel to hinder North Vietnamese infiltration into the South.

"What's that?" a visitor asked a young Marine.

"Oh, that's those people who come out every day to graze their cows," he replied.

One Strange Aspect

The fact that peasants use a part of the nine-mile-long barrier every day as a pasture is only one manifestation of the strange quality of the war being fought near the demilitarized zone, the boundary between the two Vietnams.

The United States and South Vietnam are engaged in both guerrilla warfare and a Korea-like conventional war in the I Corps area comprising the five northernmost provinces of South Vietnam.

They must also attempt to pacify hamlets, or replace Viet Cong influence with government influence, and try to control the essentially non-Communist hostility to the government among the area's Buddhists, students and ordinary citizens.

Bloodier

The war in I Corps has grown increasingly bloody. So far this year about 2,400

U.S. Marines and 400 Army troops have been killed. In the previous 22 months the

Invasion Pondered Seriously—Hartke

Washington (UPI) — Sen. Vance Hartke, D-Ind., said Friday the administration, under increasing pressure from the Pentagon, was seriously considering invading North Vietnam. The Defense Department denied it.

"There is no question that an invasion is being seriously considered," Hartke told UPI. "President Johnson is under increasing pressure to do that."

He charged that the pattern of past escalations is being followed — "a contrived leak, a trial balloon, a carefully worded Pentagon denial."

The Pentagon, in a statement several hours later, said "No consideration is being given by the Department of Defense to an invasion of North Vietnam."

Lodge Denial

Hartke said Henry Cabot Lodge, former U.S. ambassador to South Vietnam, sent up a trial balloon in Pittsburgh, where he was reported as saying he favored an invasion. But Lodge later denied making such a statement.

The next step, Hartke said, would be a denial from the Defense Department that the Joint Chiefs of Staff had ever recommended an invasion.

Meanwhile, an aide to Sen. Thurston B. Morton, R-Ky., denied press reports that the senator called for military restraint in Vietnam on the basis of the possibility of an invasion of the North.

It is known that invasion of the North was one of several alternatives recently under study when the Marines at Con Thien and other outposts just south of the DMZ were being bombarded by intense Communist artillery fire coming from across the zone.

But administration officials said Friday there was no recommendation by the Joint Chiefs for an invasion, and in the last few days the artillery pounding has been sharply reduced.

REUTHER JOINS PICKETS

A jovial Walter Reuther donned a United Auto Workers Local 600 cap and picked up a sign as he briefly joined strikers on the picket line at the Ford Motor Co.'s Rouge plant gate Friday. The UAW president, right, had just left a bargaining session. The strike went into its second month Friday.

Mystery Russian Identified

... Schischkin Believed KGB Head In West Europe

By JOHN O. KOEHLER

New York (AP) — The mystery Russian official involved in the recent hassle over a young Soviet scientist in London was identified Friday as the top secret police agent who handled the release of American U2 pilot Francis Gary Powers.

"I positively identify the man as Ivan Alexandrovich Schischkin with whom I negotiated the exchange of Powers and Col. Abel," New York attorney James B. Donovan said.

Donovan revealed that U.S. intelligence officials believe Schischkin to be the head of operations in Western Europe for KGB, the Soviet secret police. He guessed that Schischkin's rank was either major general or perhaps even lieutenant general.

"They are obviously using him on their top cases," Donovan told The Associated Press.

Tkachenko Case

Schischkin's name cropped up in London Sept. 16 when British police pulled Dr. Vladimir Tkachenko off a Moscow-bound Soviet airliner, charging the physicist had been drugged and kidnapped.

Tkachenko, 25, had been studying in Britain. He was observed being forced into a car and identified as belonging to the Soviet Embassy in London. He was driven to the airport. Scotland Yard was alerted and the departure was stopped.

There was speculation — never confirmed — that the

IVAN SCHISCHKIN

Soviets were trying to forestall what might have become a defection. The Soviets protested angrily, claiming the physicist was a mental case. Three days later, British authorities released Tkachenko and he was flown to Moscow.

Consul Shishkin

A Soviet official, identified as Consul Ivan A. Shishkin, was said to have arranged the departure. Speculation had it that he was the same man involved in the exchange of Powers for Col. Rudolf Abel, convicted in the United States as a Soviet spy. His last name was spelled differently, however.

This reporter identified Schischkin from a photograph showing two Soviet officials dragging Tkachenko back to the Soviet Embassy.

We had met many times in West and East Berlin in 1962 and 1963.

To establish the identity beyond doubt, the photograph was shown to Donovan, who pointed to Schischkin without hesitation.

Suspicion 'Right'

Donovan said the fact that Schischkin, who speaks flawless English, German and Swedish besides his native Russian, was involved indicated strongly that the British suspicion of Tkachenko's kidnapping was justified all along.

An indication of Schischkin's stature in the Soviet hierarchy is an incident which occurred in the presence of this reporter at the Soviet Embassy in East Berlin four years ago.

I was waiting for Schischkin in an anteroom. Also in the room was a Soviet army brigadier general. When Schischkin entered, the general stood up and all but snapped to attention. Schischkin dismissed him with a nod. I thought at the time that the general's deference to a "second secretary", of whom there were at least a dozen, was revealing.

Marines had been in Vietnam only 1,476 had died.

Saigon officials assert more than 20,000 North Vietnamese and Viet Cong troops have been killed in the area this year but more cautious Marine sources on the scene say the exact figure is "impossible to know."

The problem which makes I Corps unique is the 6-mile-wide, 49-mile-long DMZ which the North Vietnamese have occupied in force.

The DMZ has presented the United States with a set of alternate choices, both of them unpalatable.

To stay away from the boundary is to invite heavy infiltration of North Vietnamese troops who would eventually press down on the Americans anyway; to withdraw would give Hanoi a psychological victory for which it clearly seems to hope.

To stay in such blocking positions as Gio Linh and Con Thien near the DMZ is to expose allied forces to the kind of savage artillery attacks which Con Thien and Gio Linh recently underwent and to risk even greater losses in infantry encounters.

Barrier One Try

Defense Secretary Robert S. McNamara's plan to lengthen and improve the present strip into an electronic barrier to limit infiltration is an attempt to escape this dilemma. This is now official policy. It is not, however, a popular policy in such Marine posts as Dong Ha and Da Nang, or in the forward outposts.

The Defense Department has forbidden American officials and soldiers to discuss the project.

A parody song says: "McNamara's Barrier 40 miles long.

"Completely surrounded by Viet Cong

"I'm bugging out."

Before the inhibitions were imposed, some officers in Vietnam and the Pentagon had numerous reservations and objections. A few will repeat them privately now.

Costly

One objection is that the barrier will be too expensive in lives and resources to build and some people even doubt it can be built at all. It will be extremely difficult for engineers and security troops to work under artillery and mortar fire.

Another objection is that to be effective it will require and second degree burns on his face. Darrel Priesner, whose shirt caught on fire, suffered first degree burns on his face, and second or third degree burns on a hand, arm and side.

Helen Swanson, principal at the school, was in the furnace room at the time of the explosion but escaped injury. The ceiling tile in her office was loosened by the blast and several pieces fell to the floor.

Miss Swanson said several other rooms in the building also sustained damage and the furnace was virtually demolished.

Immediately after the explosion the school's 150 pupils were evacuated while gas company officials checked out the building. Classes were resumed a short time later.

The doctor who treated Eichner and Priesner said both were in satisfactory condition in a hospital here.

Annexation Of Millard 'Imperative'

Omaha (UPI) — The Omaha Planning Department Friday recommended that Millard be annexed effective Jan. 1.

A department study said the annexation is "imperative to Omaha's orderly expansion to the southwest."

The study added: "The annexation should be accomplished in the immediate future because rapid rental housing construction in and around Millard, plus normal residential construction, could swell Millard's population past the 10,000 cutoff point within 1 1/2 to 2 1/2 years."

Millard, with an estimated 6,000 population, could be annexed by Omaha without a vote of Millard residents. When Millard's population reaches 10,000, a vote of its residents will be needed.

The study will be presented to the Omaha City Council Tuesday.

Accident Kills Beatrice Man

Beatrice (UPI) — A 24-year-old Beatrice man was dead on arrival at a hospital Friday morning after his car left a county road and overturned a number of times.

Gage County Sheriff Fred Steinkamp, Jr., said Fred E. Jurgena was southbound on a county road near Pickrell when his auto entered a ditch on the left side of the road and then rolled over at least three times. It came to rest in a cornfield.

The sheriff said a motorist, identified as Dennis Holsing, was following Jurgena and was able to pull the man from the auto before flames engulfed it.

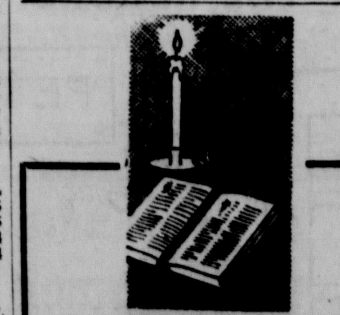

Holsing said he found Jurgena upside down, hanging by a seat belt. The car was demolished.

Huskerville Units Heavily Damaged

Police are investigating damages totaling about $10,000 to the Huskerville housing area. The Lincoln Airport Authority reported the matter to police.

Sometime during the last six months an unknown party entered nearly all the housing units in the area, which is unoccupied, according to police reports. Damage included broken windows, window sills and lights, broken doors and holes in walls.

The Lincoln Airport Authority said the $10,000 estimate is the approximate figure required to restore the housing to its original condition before the damage was incurred.

MRS. WALDO . . . remains an independent gardener at 82.

Gardener's Charm Makes 'Old Waldo Place' Blossom

By DEAN TERRILL
Southeast Nebraska Bureau

DeWitt—There's something about this garden that transcends even its gorgeous golden mums and gracefully tall red cannas.

Much of the charm is in the gardener herself, a great-grandmother who "love(s) the working as much as the flowers." Mrs. Lizzie Waldo, 82, fits into the setting like a marigold into a fall bouquet.

The one move of her life was from the neighboring Soap Creek community to this place where her late husband, Harm, had been born. There has been a garden every year since.

All Flowers
"Mostly it was vegetables when there were three boys and a girl at home, but it's every bit in flowers now that I'm all alone," said the energetic older. "What would I do if I didn't have the garden to work in?"

Displaying the same girlish spirit that had helped her shuck Dad Damkroger's corn, Mrs. Waldo handles all garden chores alone. Sons Willard and Dean are neighbors who help otherwise, but respect mom's independence with her flowers.

It was on this same old Waldo place, incidentally, that one of Nebraska's best-known purebred operations got its start in 1895. Harm Waldo was still single when he and two brothers formed a partnership specializing in Duroc hogs.

Operation Expanded
That operation has since expanded to include purebred Hampshire sheep, Angus beef cattle, polled milking Shorthorns and some certified seed. Willard, a former state senator, followed his father into livestock and added his son and son-in-law.

Brother Dean also reflects the Waldo agricultural tradition, but specializes in grain farming at DeWitt.

Tom resides in Lincoln as a vice president of the National Bank of Commerce, and the former Julia Waldo is married to Warren Lamson of the National Institute of Mental Health in Washington, D.C.

Fullerton Man, 20, Dies Near Wahoo

Wahoo (UPI) — A young Fullerton man was killed and a Kearney couple injured in a two-car collision 2.5 miles west of here on U.S. 30-A Friday afternoon, the State Safety Patrol reported.

The victim was identified as Forrest M. Mueller, 20. Injured and taken to St. Elizabeth's Hospital in Lincoln were Mr. and Mrs. G. J. Tomsac.

The patrol said the accident occurred about 2:45 p.m. Mueller was the driver of one auto and the Tomsacs occupied the other.

14-Foot Fall Kills Omahan Staying At Arizona Hotel

Phoenix, Ariz. (UPI) — A visitor from Omaha, was killed early Friday when he fell from a balcony at the Arizona Biltmore Hotel.

William R. Needham, 43, was dead on arrival at Doctor's Hotel.

Police said Needham apparently walked out of his room onto an adjoining balcony and then fell 14 feet from the balcony, landing on his head. Officers termed the death accidental.

Rogers Resigns As Health Director

By VIRGIL FALLOON
Star Staff Writer

Dr. E. A. Rogers disclosed Friday he has resigned as state health director effective no later than Jan. 1.

The 58-year-old doctor, who has headed the State Department of Health since 1951, said he would step down sooner if a successor can be named by the State Health Board.

Dr. Rogers said he is accepting a position with the State Department of Institutions under which he would "go back to being a medical doctor."

He said he has discussed possible assignment to the medical-surgical unit at the Hastings State Hospital with Dr. Robert G. Osborne, the Institutions Department's deputy director for medical and mental health services.

Good Time
Dr. Rogers said he has "wanted to be relieved of the ever-increasing responsibility of this office for some time, and this seemed like a good time to do it."

Gov. Norbert T. Tiemann, who confirmed earlier Friday that Dr. Rogers was planning to resign, said Dr. Rogers "will be extremely difficult to replace in ability and experience."

He also noted the "locked-in" $18,000 salary for the state post would make recruitment of a medical doctor difficult.

Dr. Rogers, a graduate of the University of Nebraska College of Medicine, became acting state health director in 1951 and director in 1959.

Practiced Medicine
A native of Central City, he practiced medicine at Paxton from 1936 to 1938 after receiving his M.D. degree.

He then joined the state health department staff, continuing with the department since that time except service from 1941 to 1946 with the Army Medical Corps and post graduate study in public health at the University of Michigan.

Dr. Rogers said J. G. (Jerry)

Viet, Cold War Veterans Eligible For GI Bill Help

Both Vietnam and cold war veterans can receive GI Bill educational help at the high school level to prepare for college entrance requirements under the Veterans Administration (VA) program.

Charles St. J. Chubb, manager of the regional office in Lincoln, said the VA estimates that one million to 1.5 million veterans who are eligible for education benefits need further schooling before college.

He said that each year the military releases an additional 100,000 men who would qualify for this assistance.

Manpower Meet To Hear Tiemann

Gov. Norbert Tiemann, speaking on "Nebraska's Manpower Challenge," will be featured at a noon luncheon Monday during the Nebraska State Manpower Conference at the Cornhusker Hotel.

The three-day conference, beginning Sunday, will bring together persons of various backgrounds and techniques to define manpower problem areas and to consider and evaluate solutions to Nebraska manpower problems.

Other featured speakers at the meeting include Arnie Solem, regional administrator for the Bureau of Employment Security with the U.S. Department of Labor, and Don Thomason, the regional director of the Office of Economic Opportunity.

Samuel J. Cornelius, director of the State Technical Assistance Agency, and Thomas D. Doyle, commissioner of the Department of Labor, are serving as co-chairmen for the conference.

degree in public health, but would not qualify for state health director because he is not a medical doctor.

Authorized In 1967
The assistant director post was authorized by the 1967 Legislature.

Dr. Rogers said he plans to attend the American Public Health Association meeting in Miami the week of Oct. 22, and will attempt to spend some time in recruiting applicants for all vacancies in the department, including state director.

He said the state board has asked him to help recruit a new director, but so far there have been no prospects or applicants.

If the state board is unable to name his successor before he steps down, Dr. Rogers said a temporary alternative would be for the U.S. Public Health Service to assign one of its physicians to serve as director until a regular appointment can be made as had been done in other states.

Asian Trade Trip Is Postponed Until A 'Slack Season'

A foreign trade mission to Asia previously scheduled for this month has been postponed, according to James W. Monroe, director of the Nebraska Department of Economic Development, which was to coordinate the trip.

"Several businessmen from around the state have expressed interest in making such a trip," Monroe said, "but it was decided that the busy fall season was not the best time of year for them to leave their businesses."

Monroe said that Gov. Norbert Tiemann has assured him that "if there is sufficient interest, he will personally lead a group to Asia in the spring to explore business opportunities for Nebraskans there."

IN PERSPECTIVE

By WILLIAM O. DOBLER

Thoughts are curious things, coming and going at a faster rate than most of them can be assimilated. Some of them seem to lend themselves to editorial content and others do not.

People have often joked that an editorial should be written about the weather when it was particularly bad but this is one thing over which the editorial writer has no influence. There are others like that, such as the recent rash of bomb scares.

There isn't much you can say about this, either, because it represents a real piece of idiocy. Anyone so irresponsible as to make false bomb threat calls could hardly be expected to read or pay any attention to an editorial.

Thus, it would be fruitless to urge an end to such behavior. But, it can be said that such calls are a great expense and danger to the community and the individual responsible for them is a most reprehensible citizen.

Another quick thought occurred to us as we read an account of irrigation and reclamation officials meeting in Lincoln this week. A U.S. Bureau of Reclamation official noted at this meeting that Nebraska has the potential of doubling or maybe tripling its irrigated areas.

Probably few people realize the potential of this great asset we have. In past years, crop production in Nebraska has skyrocketed and a lot of it is due to expanded use of irrigation.

Nebraska is already among the leaders in the production of food for the nation and the world. Our potential irrigation expansion is a reserve we should highly value and cultivate.

Unfortunately, too many people look just at the expense side of irrigation—what it costs to build the dams or other structures for the utilization of this potential. But it is in the gift of such resources as this that Nebraska will one day find itself highly envied among the states of the nation.

Keeping our thoughts on the home front, we would wager a guess that the state is watching the slow demise of its constitutional prohibition against bonded debt. We are making no leaps-and-bounds plunge into credit operations but we are moving in that direction.

In organizational work, the state commission established to assist communities in the development of sanitary sewer facilities discussed the legality of revenue bonds. It will seek an early court opinion on the question of whether such bonds are legal.

The thinking is that the constitution applies only to general obligation bonded debt, not the revenue bonds that would be issued for sewerage facilities. These latter would be paid off from sewer system revenues rather than general tax revenue.

A similar plan will be voted upon by the electorate next year for highway construction. If both these approaches finally make it, it is a good bet that many agencies of government will find a way of using the same thing.

Moving to the national scene, we noticed with uncertainty that the Senate has passed the anti-poverty bill while eliminating from it a $2.8 billion emergency job plan. The plan would have provided public works jobs in poverty areas.

Both Nebraska senators voted against the measure. We can understand their reluctance to vote any increase in federal spending, particularly at a time when the size of that spending is already under considerable attack throughout the country.

What causes us to wonder is what we will ever do with some of the impoverished people who have no jobs and no ability to get them. We have programs aimed at improving future generations out of our slums but today's product of the slums has no such promise.

It is much the same with the Negro where tomorrow's adults will see the benefit of an enlightened social consciousness but where today's adult victims of segregation and prejudice are finding little meaningful relief.

"Do You Give Purple Hearts To Prime Ministers?"

Auction On Vietnam?

After reading a statement by George Cook, a critic suggested that we have a candidates' auction on Vietnam. He was referring to Cook's statement that, if former Vice President Richard Nixon were elected president, the "Vietnam debacle would be over in six months."

In true critic fashion, it was suggested that Michigan Gov. George Romney might enter a bid of seven months on ending the conflict, taking a month to clear his mind of things. Some of the hawkish candidates might bid only a month or two on the grounds that North Vietnam could be obliterated in short order.

We are agreed that the statement is not very statesman-like. To date, Nixon has been among those Republicans whose course in Vietnam is the same as President Johnson's, with minor differences. Nixon has been opposed to any withdrawal and opposed to any large-scale escalation that might bring on a wider and more devastating conflict. Also, he clearly understands the need for our being in Vietnam.

His position, it seems, has not been at all in accord with Cook's description of the war as a "debacle." This is a term that, in our mind, infers failure and irresponsibility. We could be wrong on that but the term certainly describes a disaster.

And if the war is a disaster, what kind is it? This, at least, is not the tone in which Nixon has discussed the war up to this point. And if Nixon could end the war in six months, we would like to know his formula for doing so. We would hope that there are some conditions under which the American people would rather go on fighting this battle. When candidates and those in public office or people speaking for them discuss Vietnam, they should provide more than criticism and more than promises with no foundation.

Ten Days In New York City

A French reporter, Jean Bloch-Michel, of an intellectual Paris monthly magazine has come to the United States and decided that we are disillusioned and near collapse. The U.S. is "a country of violence," stricken by knife fights, drugs, erotic debauchery, slums, extreme poverty, neglected old people, poor Negroes and Puerto Ricans, and wife-swapping.

A bleak picture? It sure is. And how did the Frenchman arrive at his grim conclusions about America?

He spent 10 days in New York City. He ought to be arrested for impersonating a reporter.

The Frenchman's hatchet job on this country maintains that "the mythical image" of the U.S. as a land where "everybody had his opportunity" has been destroyed. "Already badly shaken by the Negro revolt, by the growing moral malaise, the United States seems to be plunging into a state of confusion and disorder," he wrote.

And then, in a nod to journalistic integrity, Mr. Bloch-Michel penned:

"I know that in this respect New York presents a picture that does not reflect the entire country. I imagine there exist many small towns still asleep, in a state of conformism and security that appears unchangeable. Perhaps certain aspects of the American malaise are unknown to them..."

Sleeping cities unaware of the problem? Where, sir, in this land of constant television news and thousands of newspapers? Newspapers and broadcasting stations not controlled by a senile old man, by the way.

No, Americans in cities of all sizes are aware of our problems. And more than aware, we're working on the problems.

But then that's not something you'd see in 10 days in New York City.

Chief Justice A Dedicated Baseball Fan; Missing Out On World Series This Year

WASHINGTON — For the first time in 14 years, Washington's No. 1 baseball fan is not able to watch the entire World Series. He is tied up on the Supreme Court. Most people connect Earl Warren with school desegregation or complicated legal decisions. But he has a secret sideline — sports. He reads the sports pages in the morning before he reads the front-page headlines because, he says, "The front page advertises man's failures; the sports pages report men's achievements." And this year he picked the Boston Red Sox, one month in advance, to win the American League pennant.

Those who serve on the Supreme Court with Warren will tell you that he is a walking dictionary regarding the landmark cases the court has handed down. But he is also a walking dictionary regarding baseball records and baseball greats.

He can tell you right off the top of his head how many bases Maury Wills stole at the peak of his career — 104 bases in 1962. And he'll give you an opinion, not to be reported in the Harvard Law Review, that the reason the Los Angeles Dodgers dropped from pennant winner last year to near cellar this year is because they traded off Wills to the Pittsburgh Pirates and lost Sandy Koufax because of his forced retirement for health.

When a friend once asked the Chief Justice why he was so interested in baseball, he replied: "I just enjoy it. When I go to bed and want to get my mind off a difficult legal problem, I just think about baseball or football."

When Warren was governor of California he was asked informally to become baseball commissioner. He didn't accept because it would have taken him away from home too much, and he had just finished a political campaign which had forced him to be away from his family.

There is one sport the Chief Justice is skeptical

JAMES RESTON

Symington, Dirksen Views

WASHINGTON — The Senate has finally had a serious debate on Vietnam, but in the process it has produced two ideas which could actually make the situation there even worse than it is now.

The first is the Symington idea of a cease-fire coupled with a threat. The Missouri senator proposes that we stop all military activity in both North and South Vietnam on a certain date (including all reinforcements) and announce that if the enemy continues the hostilities, the United States will then "feel free to pursue this war in any manner of its own choosing."

This seems to give something to all the contending factions in the current controversy. The doves would get their cease-fire. If the enemy did not stop fighting, then the implication is that the hawks would be liberated to hit any targets they liked anywhere in North Vietnam. And the people who feel uneasy with a limited war would have a neat and simple formula: no nonsense, no more ambiguity, either peace or war to the death.

The trouble with this is that there is absolutely no evidence that the communists would negotiate under threat. On the contrary, they have insisted from the beginning that the bombing must be stopped unconditionally. Accordingly, about the only sure thing in this, other than a rejection from the communists, would be increased pressure here at home for a more savage war if the cease-fire didn't lead to the kind of peace we wanted.

JAMES DANA

Profiles In Science

Geology is more than the study of the rocks and soil of the earth. In reality it is a kind of history. In the rocks and soil, the mountains and valleys, the history of the earth is written.

Among the first American scientists to emphasize this fascinating aspect of science was James Dwight Dana.

Dana, the oldest of 12 children, was born in New York in 1813. He went to the high school in Utica and there experienced his first scientific field trip. He attended Yale where his interest in geology and mineralogy was fostered.

***

In 1833 Dana became a tutor of mathematics aboard a Navy ship on which he traveled in the Mediterranean collecting rocks and minerals. When he returned to the United States, he became an assistant in geology and mineralogy laboratory at Yale where he studied the then new branch of geology called crystallography — the science of how minerals and rocks are aligned, molecule by molecule, in their many-sided and unique shapes.

In 1837 Dana published his System of Mineralogy, one of the most important text-

The second idea that came out of the debate was Senator Dirksen's definition of why the United States was fighting in Vietnam. Not only because we were treaty-bound to do so, he said. Not only to keep the communists from imposing their political will on South Vietnam by force. Not only in defense of the principle of self-determination. But because the strategic line from Korea through Vietnam was essential to the security of the United States.

"I do not want to see that line broken," Senator Dirksen kept repeating in a colloquy with Senator Fulbright, "so that all the rest of Southeast Asia is exposed, because if it is, then the whole Pacific coastline of this country will be exposed."

Now this is a critical point, for this is what the communists have always feared: that the United States was fighting there to maintain a strategic stronghold close to the China frontier. It was to remove this fear that the Johnson administration has emphasized that it wanted no bases in Vietnam, and was willing to abide by the will of the people here, even if they decided freely to form a communist government.

This has been said by the Johnson administration time and again, both here and at the United Nations, for it was recognized by the President that the communists would probably never agree to a compromise that left the United States either with bases or a strong military ally in South Vietnam.

Mr. Dirksen, however, has now confused this issue again and given support to the very thing the communists fear the most. He is not, of course, a spokesman for the President, but ironically and in actual fact, he is closer to the President on this issue than the President's own majority leader in the Senate. Senator Fulbright asked Senator Dirksen: "Do I then understand that the senator believes a permanent base there is necessary for our security?" Senator Dirksen replied: "No. I think that after stability is restored at long last, they (the South Vietnamese) can set up their own military requirements in order to meet this threat."

To most military experts here, however, this is really a formula for an endless U.S. military presence in South Vietnam. For nobody can foresee the day when any of the South Vietnamese leaders now on the scene can "restore" stability or that the South Vietnamese could contain by themselves a communist force that has held out so long against both the South Vietnamese and an American expeditionary force of half a million men.

There is no doubt that Dirksen felt the criticism of the President was going too far and wanted to help him, but ironically, he may very well have done the opposite.

For he has raised fundamental doubts again about the nation's war aims in Vietnam, and so long as there is the least suspicion in Hanoi that the United States is trying to retain a powerful base or ally in that peninsula, the President's chances of a negotiated settlement are not likely to be very good.

Rats Are Smarter Than Most People

NEW YORK — "Rats are pretty awful creatures," the rat expert said, "but in a way, you've got to admire them."

"They've outwitted man for centuries, and I see no significant signs that man is getting any smarter, rat-wise, or that rats are getting any dumber."

The gentleman who professes this tribute is Earl F. Geiger, sometimes subtitled "America's Pied Piper." As executive V.P. of a large exterminating company, he has led more rats to their doom than the next 20 rat-killers combined. But still, his work has made scarcely a dent in the U.S.'s rat family — which is 100 million strong, and wily.

"Let me tell you more about these highly successful mammals — by the way, have you had dinner yet? — good — well, they are our most awesome enemy on earth," said Earl. "Rats have killed more people than all the wars in history. They've ruined more grain in India than it imports, they've started one of every four fires of unknown origin, have gnawed holes in dams to start floods, and have thrown large sections of New York City into darkness by eating through electric wires."

"We've long held the theory that rats are as frightened of humans as humans are of rats, but I think they are getting bolder. This is partly because of their intense curiosity. Most animals in behavioral experiments are rewarded with food — but a rat can be rewarded with an opportunity to explore a complex maze, rather than with food. A rat will often gnaw through a lead pipe, not because he's teaching or likes the taste of lead, but because he's curious to see the water running through it."

Geiger says it is ironic that, although this rodent is man's most awesome predator, little is being done toward developing a truly effective raticide — "one that will spread disease among an entire colony, for example. Today's raticides were developed only as byproducts of research in human medicine."

What, then, is to be done about the ratty problem?

"They are so vitamin-conscious," says Earl, "that one way to trap them is to offer them an exterminator that contains vitamins that are missing from his diet. The trail of Vitamin C may lead to the downfall of a rat."

"But extermination alone won't solve the problem, and giving rats birth control pills won't solve the problem, nor will federal spending. The elimination of their food supply and nesting areas is as important as killing rats — but this is hard to accomplish."

"I find it a shame that there is a $50 fine for littering on a big parkway, but only a $10 fine for throwing garbage from a New York tenement window."

Geiger's company will soon introduce a plan for all the cities with rat problems. It will include the training of poverty area residents for employment in rat control projects.

The slogan may well be: "Put a man in a job, and a rat out of business."

Such a plan won't rid the country of rats. But it might curb their population explosion...

books and one that is still referred to in geology classes.

It was most recently revised in 1944. The book was responsible for a great increase in the hobby of rock collecting and identification and was of immense value in the California gold rush that took place a decade after the book was published.

A few years after the publication of his book, Dana went on a government ship on a long voyage of exploration to the South Seas, Australia and Antarctica, and again the U.S. Navy became his university and his scientific sponsor.

Dana was the mineralogist and geologist on the expedition, which also included entomologists, ornithologists, botanists and zoologists.

When he returned he published other books that are still being revised and used, including the Manual of Mineralogy and the Manual of Geology. In the latter book geology is treated for the first time in America as the history of the great changes that have occurred, and are still occurring, in the earth. Dana analyzed the geological periods, ascribing them to tentative dates as periods and epochs, and became the most famous and respected geologist of the mid-19th century in America and England.

At first he was reluctant to go along with Darwin's theory of evolution but later adopted the attitude toward evolution that today is the attitude of most Christian Churches—that evolution was begun and directed by God.

He died in 1895.

Growing Older Can Be Satisfying Experience

By ROBERT PETERSON
Several months ago readers were invited to share with this column thoughts they might have on growing older. Here is a letter from Mrs. Rositah Ortiga of Ojai, Calif., who writes:
"I am 60 and have many blessings including a good son, a wonderful daughter-in-law, and five lovable grandchildren. I was on the stage as a young woman. Later I taught dancing and until recently operated a successful Mexican restaurant. "Last year I was in a serious accident and laid up for months. There was a chance I wouldn't walk again. But it proved a blessing in disguise for I had to slow down and in the process began to discover how wonderful life can be. "I've got many fine friends, but interestingly enough, I've learned to enjoy solitude, too. I'm far from rich but there is enough for me to live comfortably in a cozy cabin here, surrounded by pictures, scrap books, and fond memories. "Just now I am gazing out at the tall acacia trees, all golden in bloom. There are some mallard ducks enjoying the greenery, and the sun is trying to break through the clouds. "There are always things to do. I work part time, I sew, take long walks, watch television, crochet slippers for my friends, and have learned to live with my handicaps. "When there are free moments I love to watch the birds, gaze at the beautiful sunsets in their splendor, and watch the planes land and take off at the airport across the highway from where I live. I enjoy the hum of cars speeding past my place for I find myself wondering who the people are in the cars and where they are going. "Life didn't begin at 40 for me—it was a little hard in those days. But it has really begun now that I am older, wiser and better able to comprehend the wonder of just being alive. I don't worry about keeping young—I'm grateful just to be myself. "Youth-oriented attitudes cause many people to regret the passing years. But as Mrs. Ortiga has discovered, growing older can be a warm and satisfying experience. Her happy acceptance of age should be inspiring to others.

Workmen's Compensation Suit Judgment Affirmed

By Associated Press
The State Supreme Court Friday affirmed the judgment of the Lincoln County District Court in a Workmen's Compensation suit brought by Percy Burrious against the North Platte Packing Co. Employee Burrious, 62, at the time was injured Feb. 19, 1964 when his left leg accidentally entered a hammer grinder. The Workmen's Compensation Court and later the district court awarded Burrious benefits on the basis of a partial permanent loss of use and function of the left foot. Burrious contended the compensation should have been on the basis of over-all permanent partial disability but the high court said the facts do not justify the latter type compensation.

In other rulings Friday, the court:

Reversed the judgment of the Lancaster District Court in a divorce action brought by Dennis O. Covault against Sandra K. Covault.

The district court awarded a divorce to the husband on grounds of extreme cruelty, gave the husband custody of a child, divided property of the parties and assessed costs of the action against Mr. Covault.

The Supreme Court held that the district court erred in not granting Mr. Covault a divorce on the grounds of adultery, which he also had pleaded. The lower court erred also in awarding an attorney's fee to Mrs. Covault and in taxing costs to Mr. Covault, the high court held.

Field, in an appeal from Douglas County, that evidence was sufficient to sustain the district court conviction of Donald J. Myers on charges of violating an Omaha city ordinance by enticing a minor with intent to take indecent liberties with the person of the child.

Reversed, in another Douglas County case, the contention of Wayne Gau, accused in a 1965 jewelry store robbery, that a 36-day interval between his arrest and his preliminary hearing violated a state law designed to assure speedy hearing or trial. The Supreme Court held that delay was occasioned by Gau's desire to obtain counsel, was for his convenience and with his consent.

Leaders Of NU's New Scarlet Beret Unit Announced

Three students have been commissioned leaders of the University of Nebraska's new Scarlet Beret unit of the Army Reserve Officer Training Corps (ROTC).

They are Cadet Captain James Overton of 888 So. 45th, Lincoln, Cadet Lt. Samuel Fassig of Fremont and Cadet Major Robert Wilcox of Hastings.

The Scarlet Beret unit is being organized at the university as an elite training unit in extensive field problems and physical fitness.

Major Edgar C. Garrison, professor of military science and advisor for the unit, said that prospective members will compete for their scarlet beret by completing such operations as water and cold weather survival, long range reconnaissance patrolling and counter guerrilla operations.

Meet Star Carrier Chuck Coleman

If you eat a meal at the Douglas Coleman home at Washington, Kan., it's quite possible that the vegetables you enjoy were raised and cooked by 10-year-old Chuck.

But gardening and cooking are just a small part of Chuck's wide-ranging activities. He is also a coin collector, plays the drums, loves to swim and is a member of a Cub Scout group.

Chuck is also the proud owner of a number of trophies he won as a Junior League bowler.

A student at Washington Grade School, Chuck's favorite subjects are history and geography and he hopes to become a history teacher some day.

As a carrier salesman for The Lincoln Star, Chuck may

His parents say the route has taught their son many valuable things — such as thrift and responsibility and feel that having a paper route is a terrific opportunity for boys.

Former Coed, Bride

Tall arrangements of white gladioli and white and blue-tinted chrysanthemums formed the chancel decor in St. Mary's Church, Friday evening, Oct. 6, for the wedding of Miss Nancy Harriet Hoffman, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. George H. Hoffman of Harrison, and Gary Wayne Neibauer, son of Mr. and Mrs. Otto Neibauer of Scottsbluff. The ceremony was solemnized at 7:30 o'clock by the Rev. Charles E. Kelliher.

Floor-length frock of royal blue georgette trimmed with lace in antique white were chosen for Mrs. Charles C. Bahnson, Sioux Falls, S.D., the honor attendant; Mrs. Daniel Borg, Omaha, the bridesmatron; and the bridesmaids, Miss Nancy Freimuth, Crawford, Miss Susan Dowe and Miss Lucy Harding.

Russell Fuller of Scottsbluff, served Mr. Neibauer as best man, and the corps of ushers included Donald Wolcott, Jay Dee Neibauer, Scottsbluff; Erwin Hoffman, Greeley, Colo.; David Ernst, Columbus; John Rasmussen, Omaha; Robert Churchich, Gary Hoffman and Henry Price.

The bride's slender gown of peau de soie in the candlelight tone was touched with Chantilly lace accented with tear-drop pearls. The lace bordered the bell sleeves and encircled the high waist of the basque, and the lace was repeated in a deep border on the slim skirt and the detachable, chapel train. A cluster of jeweled silk petals held her bouffant illusion veil, and she carried white orchids and sweetheart roses.

A member of Kappa Alpha Theta, the bride is a June graduate of the University of Nebraska. Mr. Neibauer, a member of Phi Kappa Psi and the Varsity baseball team, will receive his degree from the university in January, when he will join the Atlanta Braves baseball farm system in Florida, where the couple will live in West Palm Beach.

ers and red jackets. And the Cornhuskers will have to do a lot of running to keep warm—hopefully in the direction of K-State's goal, for several touchdowns.

With the general exodus to Kansas, the suburban scene is relatively quiet this weekend. Those who aren't going to be in the stands this afternoon will have their radios ready for the 2 o'clock kick-off.

Among those who will be tuning in to the Husker game via transistor will be Dr. and Mrs. Miles Tommeraaen. That way, they can listen to the action and unpack boxes at the same time.

A week ago Monday, Dr. and Mrs. Tommeraaen and their family moved from their home on Colony Lane in Meadow Lane, to 601 Sycamore Dr., Wedgewood.

The new location, they find, is not only close to schools, but also affords a wonderful view of the lake. As soon as the "basement full of boxes" is under control, they hope to have time to really enjoy it!

Two enthusiastic "Big Red" rooters who will be at the game this afternoon are Mr. and Mrs. R. H. Tornblom. The Eastridge residents also will have guests for the next home game, two weeks from today—their son, Steve, will be coming from Boulder, Colo., and Mr. and Mrs. Wendel Whalen will make the trip from Omaha.

A Mulder Drive residence in Eastridge will be festive next Tuesday morning. There is to be a neighborhood coffee for which Mrs. Roger Larson and Mrs. R. H. Tornblom will be hostesses at the home of Mrs. Larson.

At the coffee, two new Eastridge residents will have a chance to get acquainted with some of their neighbors. The newcomers are Mrs. Rusk Gayed and Mrs. Gayle Sup.

The Cornhuskers have lost two football fans, Mr. and Mrs. Francis D. Keller, who have traded their Eastridge Dr. address for a home in Temple, Ariz.

TALK around the town

We haven't heard one, single, solitary complaint about the drippy weather, and that is due to the fact that no one has the time to give the atmospheric condition a second thought. There is too much going on.

For Miss Connie Justice and Rennie Walt, whose marriage will be solemnized on Thursday evening, Oct. 19, it is to be a busy weekend. As a matter of fact the activity began on Friday evening when the 'older generation of Walts' paid courtesy to Miss Justice and Mr. Walt when the 'oldsters' entertained at dinner at the Lincoln Country Club, places were arranged for 30.

The not-so-old 'older generation' included Mrs. Alma Hille, Dr. and Mrs. Norman Carlson, Mr. and Mrs. Edward J. Walt, Mr. and Mrs. Herbert Walt, Mr. and Mrs. Robert Stephens and Mr. and Mrs. Arthur Weaver, and Mr. and Mrs. George Segrist of Clarinda, Iowa. The younger generation of guests included the sons and daughters-in-law, and vice versa, of the hosts and hostesses.

And on Sunday evening Miss Justice and Mr. Walt again were honored when Mr. and Mrs. Robert Stephens, Mr. and Mrs. Phillip Stephens and Mr. and Mrs. Jerry Solomon were dinner hosts and hostesses at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Solomon.

Then comes Monday evening and a strictly family party for which Mrs. Edward J. Walt and her daughters, Mrs. William Seiboldt, Jr., and the Misses Leslie and Judy Walt will be hostesses at the home of Mrs. Walt. The soon-to-be bride will be presented with a miscellaneous shower.

Last night, of course, was dinner-dance night for the members of the Colonial Dancing Club who held the festivities at Hotel Lincoln. The party theme was 'First Nighters' which was proper and fitting since the seven new member were presented. Taking their bows were Mr. and Mrs. Howard Dinsdale, Mr. and Mrs. Howard Eckel, Dr. and Mrs. Richard Groff, Mr. and Mrs. L. C. Jones, Mr. and Mrs. Herbert Probasco, Mr. and Mrs. Harold Rosenbush and Mr. and Mrs. Tyler Ryan.

The success of the fun event was due to the members of the planning committee which included Mr. and Mrs. Dwight McVicker, chairman; Dr. and Mrs. Steven Watkins, Mr. and Mrs. Bud Owens, Mr. and Mrs. Glen Yaussi, Mr. and Mrs. Art Reed, Mr. and Mrs. Harold Nelson, Mr. and Mrs. L. C. Jones, Mr. and Mrs. Herbert Henderson, Mr. and Mrs. Ted Dennis and Mr. and Mrs. Richard Blomgren.

The tendency is to win a trick when the opportunity arises, but there are many occasions when it is more expedient to reject a trick.

This is especially true in defensive play against suit contracts when the declarer ruffs a card and a defender has the opportunity to overruff. Frequently, the best defense in such cases is to decline to overruff in the hope of thereby promoting an extra trick.

Here is a typical case. South is declarer at three clubs and West finds the best lead of a diamond. East wins the first trick with the ten and continues with the A-K-J.

Declarer follows to three rounds, but is awkwardly placed on the last diamond. In the actual hand he must go down regardless of what he does at this point—assuming that West defends correctly—but let's say he ruffs with the ten.

If West overruffs, as well he might if he was brought up in the school that grabs a trick as soon as the opportunity presents itself, South makes the contract. The queen of clubs later falls on the ace and declarer easily scores nine tricks.

But if West is on his toes, he simply discards a second spade when South ruffs the fourth round of diamonds. Regardless of how declarer now plays the hand, he must inevitably lose two trump tricks and go down one.

The discard is based more on the general theory that nothing can be gained by overruffing the ten—since West now has a guaranteed trump trick regardless of how the unseen clubs are distributed—but that something might be gained by discarding a useless card after South has spent a relatively high trump.

Abby: do as John says

Abigail Van Buren

DEAR ABBY: I went with John (fake name) for four years and my mother hated him. In fact she told me she would rather see me dead than married to John. Well, when I became of age I married John against my mother's wishes and you should have heard the terrible things she said about him. I couldn't even put them in this letter. She did her best to ruin his reputation.

Now that we are going to have a baby my mother is trying to make-up with John. John says he will never set foot in her house and if she wants to see me or the baby she will have to come here during the day time while he is not at home. My mother even wanted to have a birthday party for me, and John said I could go if I wanted to, but he wasn't going. What can I do, Abby? I can't blame John for feeling the way he does, but she is still my mother and this is making it awfully hard on me.

JOHN'S WIFE

DEAR WIFE: If in time John finds it in his heart to make peace with your mother—and I hope he does, fine. But until he does, continue to see your mother while John's at work.

Troubled? Write to Abby, Box 69700, Los Angeles, Cal., 90069. For a personal reply, inclose a stamped, self-addressed envelope.

Indian Minister Is Confident Bombing End Means Peace

United Nations, N.Y. (AP) — Indian Defense Minister Swaran Singh declared Friday he was confident a cessation of all hostilities in Vietnam would follow an unconditional halt in the U.S. bombing of North Vietnam.

Singh, whose government has close and direct contact with Hanoi through at least two channels, told the U.N. General Assembly in a major policy speech that the "essential first step" for peace in Vietnam was a halt in the bombing.

"We are confident that if this is done," he said, "it will lead to a cessation of all hostile activities throughout Vietnam and a Geneva-type meeting."

Appealed To U.S. He appealed to the United States to take this "calculated risk," arguing that "the risks involved in escalation are greater."

Singh pledged India would continue to try to move the conflict to the peace table, an effort he said was "encouraged by the positive response we have received" from the parties involved, including North Vietnam.

But he also urged North Vietnam "to look at this question from the larger interest of peace in Asia and the world, and we are confident that they will respond favorably if no preconditions are laid to the cessation of bombing of their territory."

Travel Freely India is a member of the three-nation International Control Commission on Indo-China, set up to oversee the implementation of the Geneva Agreements of 1954. The commission representatives are able to travel freely between Saigon and Hanoi.

India also has consular relations with both North and South Vietnam. Sources in the Indian delegation here said the Indian consulate in Hanoi and the North Vietnamese consulate in New Delhi are used for political exchanges as well as commercial contacts.

Poland and Canada, the other two members of the International Control Commission, have also laid heavy stress on a halt in the bombing as an essential forerunner of a political solution in Vietnam.

ANCIENT MARINER RETURNS

William Willis, 74-year-old mariner who attempted to cross the Atlantic on his 11½-foot sailboat, is greeted by his wife, Teddy, at New York's LaGuardia Airport after flight from Boston. He had trouble in a bad storm about two-thirds of the way across and had to seek help from a Polish fishing trawler. A Coast Guard cutter brought him to Boston.

'Feeling Of Inferiority' Said Rioters' Burden

Washington (AP) — Gov. Otto Kerner of Illinois, chairman of the President's Commission on Civil Disorders, said Friday a deep feeling of inferiority and rejection burdened last summer's rioters.

Most white Americans are unaware of the feeling, he told reporters, and "many who are aware are not aware of how deep and sensitive this feeling is."

"This is the base of the whole thing," he said. Kerner and New York Mayor John V. Lindsay, the commission's vice chairman, briefed newsmen on the commission's work since President Johnson established it on July 29.

But Kerner said reports that it might issue a preliminary report Dec. 15 resulted from confusion over the date set for staff completion of preliminary work.

Kerner said the group's short-range recommendations are apt to be nonlegislative proposals, dealing with ways that private industry, universities and foundations can take steps to meet what the commission considers the three main problems — jobs, housing and education.

Wilson's Laborites Emerge United Following Convention

Scarborough, England (AP) — Prime Minister Harold Wilson's Labor Party emerged Friday night from its annual five-day convention apparently united on most key issues.

Party Chairman John Boyd proclaimed in his closing address: "Let this message ring out through the country — there has been no split. There has been no divorce. Whatever the party and our government colleagues."

What Boyd meant was that Wilson and his government had successfully weathered a heralded onslaught by the party's disgruntled left wing on the administration's foreign, defense and economic policies. Only on Vietnam did the government take a beating and that by such a slim margin that Foreign Secretary George Brown wrote it off as a tie.

Canada 'More Stimulating'—Soviet

Edmonton, Alta. (AP) — A defecting Soviet nuclear scientist said Friday he asked the Canadian government for asylum because the West "is much more stimulating" for the kind of theoretical research he wants to do.

Dr. Boris Dotsenko, 41, former chief nuclear scientist at the Ukrainian Academy of Science in Kiev announced Thursday night his decision not to return to Russia.

He said in an interview Friday he employed "scientific method" to check and compare the different conditions in Russia and Canada before deciding to stay in Canada.

Dotsenko came to the University of Alberta a year ago on a research grant and said he had made a "definite decision to get out of the Soviet Union" before coming to Canada.

But he said before making his decision to apply for permanent residence status, "I decided to use the scientific method . . . I felt I should observe conditions here from a personal, scientific and political point of view."

He concluded he could find the academic and political freedom he wanted in Canada.

He described the University of Alberta as having a "really creative scientific atmosphere," and said, "All of the scientific establishments I worked at in the Soviet Union could only envy this establishment here."

Dotsenko said he has applied through the Soviet Embassy to divorce his wife, Klavdia, 38. They have one daughter, Irina, 10.

Court Rules Sweepstakes Can't Finance N.H. Schools

Concord, N.H. — The New Hampshire Supreme Court Friday ruled unconstitutional a law allowing sweepstakes funds to be distributed to parochial as well as public schools.

The 4 to 1 decision voided a law passed last June by the state legislature.

The state court said the law violated the First Amendment of the United States Constitution, which provides for separation of church and state.

The original sweepstakes law, passed in 1963, provided for sweepstakes profits to be distributed to public schools on a "flat grant per resident pupil" basis.

About 127,000 public school children in New Hampshire are currently aided by sweepstakes funds. The new law would have added an additional 30,000 parochial school children.

10,000-Year-Old Seeds Sprout Well

New York Times Service

New York — Canadian botanists have grown normal healthy plants from seeds believed to have lain dormant but alive for at least 10,000 years in Canada's frozen Arctic wastes.

They are thought to be the oldest living organisms on earth, three times as old as the giant Sequoias in California, said Dr. A. E. Porsild, a botanist at the National Museum of Canada and leader of the project.

The previous record for seed longevity was 2,000 years, held by three dormant sacred lotus seeds found buried in a canoe in a peat bog near Tokyo in 1951.

The plants that sprouted from the Canadian seeds are Arctic lupines, commonly found today throughout Alaska and Arctic Canada.

The seeds, about the size of rice kernels, were unearthed in 1954 by a mining engineer in Canada's Yukon Territory.

The engineer, Harold Schmidt, found two dozen of the lupine seeds carefully stashed away in rodent burrows that were permanently frozen in silt from 10 to 20 feet below the surface.

Schmidt had kept the seeds, along with a rodent skull from one of the burrows, in a dry place over the years. This prevented the seeds from germinating naturally until a palaeontologist, Dr. D. R. Harington, obtained them and brought them to the museum in Ottawa for study.

There, Porsild placed the best of the lot on wet filter paper in a Petri dish. Six germinated within 48 hours. Later they were transferred to pots and placed in a greenhouse, where they have since grown into vigorous young plants.

Now one year old, the plants are on display at the museum. The scientific findings are published in the current issue of Science, weekly Journal of the American Association for the Advancement of Science.

$4.6 Billion Approved For NASA

Washington (UPI) — The Senate Friday approved $4.6 billion in spending money for the civilian space agency. It refused to cut $100 million that President Johnson says is unnecessary.

The measure carrying funds for the next eight months of operation by the National Aeronautics and Space Administration was passed 60 to 5. It now goes to a House-Senate conference committee where negotiators will work out differences with the $4.583 billion House version.

Sens. William Proxmire, D-Wis., and John J. Williams, R-Del., were defeated by narrow margins in a drive to cut the bill back to the House-passed version.

While the Senate bill carries more than the House bill, it still is $421 million below what NASA originally requested. The President accepted the House cuts, saying they were part of efforts to curb federal spending and win support for a tax increase.

The Senate rejected, 36 to 30, a Proxmire move to eliminate $100 million for space research and NASA facilities.

By a 34-31 vote, it defeated Williams' move to cut $26 million added by the Appropriations Committee for the Voyager program for exploration of Mars in 1975.

Most For Apollo Most of the money—$2.7 billion—would be used to finance the Apollo project to land men on the moon, originally targeted by 1970, but probably to be delayed by the rehearsal explosion that killed three astronauts in January.

NASA officials have said there was plenty of money for the moon program, but that cutbacks would slow other space projects to a crawl.

The Senate went along with Appropriations Committee additions of $10 million for nuclear rockets, $15 million for tracking and data acquisition, and other programs.

Ike Says Vietnam 'A Different War'

Washington (AP) — Former President Dwight D. Eisenhower, visiting Washington for a physical checkup, declined Friday to give an opinion on how the Vietnam war should be fought.

"This war is as different from the one I fought as day is from night," he told newsmen as he entered Walter Reed Army Hospital. "I'd be just plain silly to tell anyone how to fight it."

NU To Reflect 'Achievement' During University Centennial

Plans are moving forward for observing the University of Nebraska's centennial year in 1969 by reflecting on past achievement and providing the impetus for future development of the institution and the state, the University said Friday.

"The centennial year should be an occasion for launching new educational and intellectual ventures which will significantly affect the university and the state during the next century," said Dr. Wallace Peterson, chairman of the Faculty Centennial Committee.

In line with this feeling, a "Centennial College" has been proposed by the Faculty Centennial Committee and the University Centennial Committee headed by E. N. Thompson of Lincoln.

Experimental

The "Centennial College" would be experimental in nature, but designed to provide a beginning for education in excellence and in depth for a select group of 200 to 300 entering freshmen students, officials said. During the freshman year, they would pursue a common program of intensive and supervised study which would probe man's knowledge in the humanities, the social sciences, and the physical and biological sciences.

After the freshman year they would pursue their academic interests in the various disciplines. Vice Chancellor Merk Hobson is chairman of the Committee on the Centennial College.

A second major venture would involve a study to analyze and assess the basic economic, social and cultural forces now influential in Nebraska which will determine the kind of a society in which we shall be living in the 1970's. The University of Nebraska Foundation has provided funds to enable the department of economics to do this study in the next two years, officials said.

Major Portions

The major portion of special observances in commemoration of the centennial will be concentrated between Feb. 15, 1969, the university's Charter Day, and the June 1969 commencement. Charter Day activities would include a major address, a luncheon, and a major cultural event in the evening.

A major symposium on economic growth and education is proposed for the month of March 1969. Prof. Campbell R. McConnell has been named chairman of the special faculty committee planning this event.

Plans are being made to invite a scholar with an international reputation for the annual Montgomery Lectures in April 1969. In May a symposium will be held to discuss and publicize the results of the study of the economic and social development of the state.

Special Effort

The formal centennial year observance will conclude with the June 1969 commencement when a special effort will be made to confer honorary degrees to several persons of national and international importance.

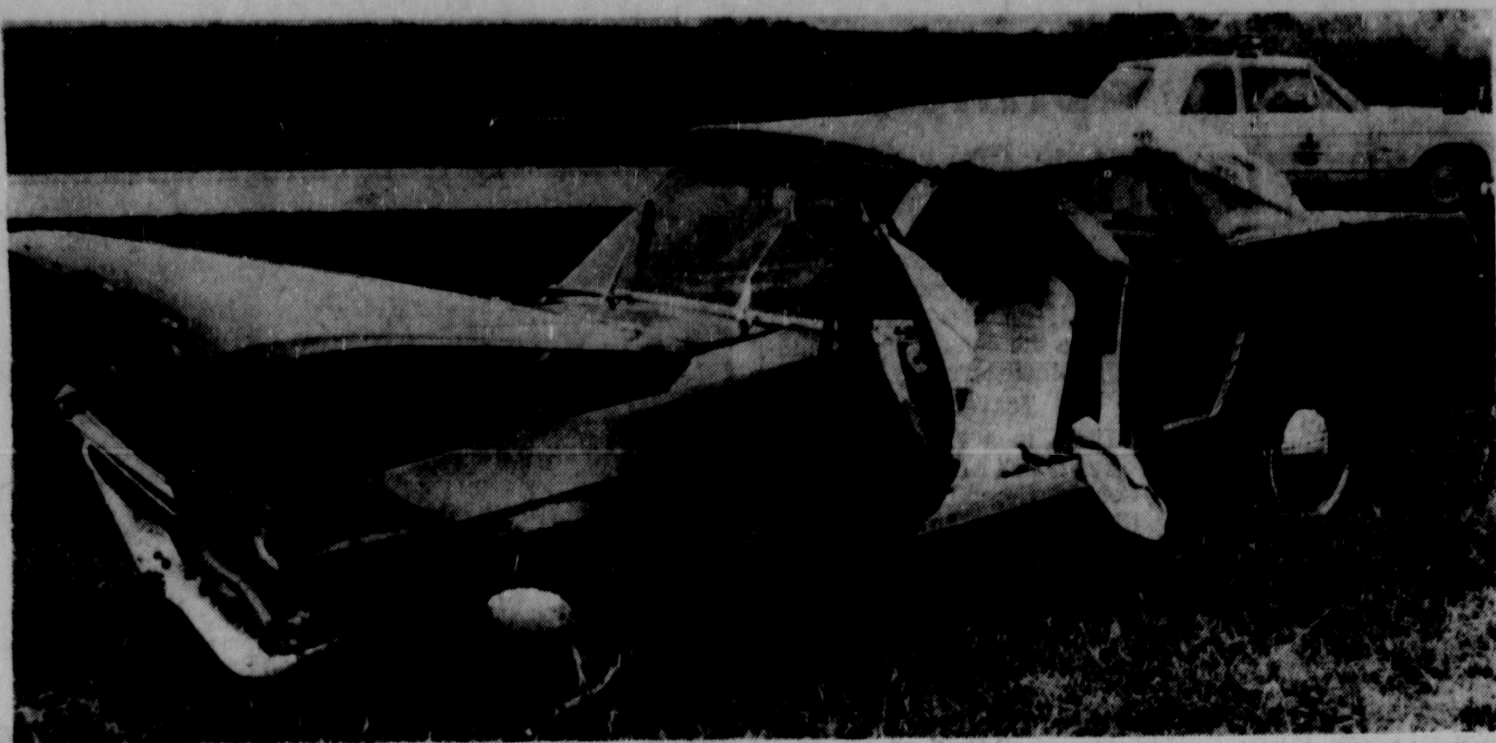

A major event of the centennial year will be the publication of the centennial history of the university, now being written by Prof. Robert Manley of Hiram Scott College and former university faculty member. Publication of the centennial history is being financed by a grant by Mrs. Martha McKelvie of Phoenix, Ariz.

Beginning in January 1968, the university alumnus magazine will publish a series of articles on "The Direction of the University — the Beginning of the Second Century," in which views on this theme will be offered by representatives of the university Regents, administration, alumni, and present and emeriti faculty members, and the governor.

Beginning in September 1968 and continuing through June 1969, a centennial series in the Alumnus will focus on developments within the individual scholarly disciplines.

Plans are also being made to present a series of continuing performances over the state in the fine arts, including concerts by the University Symphony and University Theatre Repertory Company, and appropriate exhibits and seminars with a centennial theme in the Sheldon Memorial Art Gallery.

No definite plans have been formulated as yet for student participation in the centennial year, officials said.

Man Badly Hurt As Car Rolls Over On Highway 77

Robert L. Boykin, 23, of 3114 S. 48th, was critically injured late Friday afternoon in an accident that occurred when his car rolled into the ditch after passing a truck on Highway 77 five miles north of Lincoln, according to the State Patrol. Boykin's automobile, shown above, was demolished, and Boykin remained in critical condition early Saturday morning at Bryan Memorial Hospital. He was alone in the car at the time. (Star Photo.)

Catholics Active In United Church Women

Catholic women attended the Lincoln United Church Women meeting here Friday for the first time as members.

Urged by former Lincoln Bishop James V. Casey to cooperate with the organization of women from some 55 Lincoln area churches, the Lincoln Deanery Council of Catholic Women joined the group during the summer.

"They are already actively working in the United Church Women activities," reported Mrs. Orin G. Peterson, co-chairman of Friday's program.

Representatives from Tabitha Home also attended their first meeting Friday as members of the group although Tabitha is not a church, Mrs. Peterson said.

Some 225 women were on hand for the program on "The Charismatic Woman Serves."

Showing "opportunities which women have to serve God's purpose," according to Mrs. Peterson, three Lincolnites illustrated that "no matter what a woman's particular ability, she can find avenues in which to serve."

Mrs. Glen Gingles, associate dean of the school of home economics at the University of Nebraska, discussed opportunities in the home.

Mrs. Ed Weaver Jr., head of the church committee for minimum housing standards, talked about community service, and Mrs. A. R. Marquardt, a conference and jurisdiction president of Methodist women, spoke about church service.

Housing Code Won't Include Right-Of-Entry

City Councilman Carroll Thompson Friday night called the right-of-entry clause of the proposed minimum housing ordinance "misleading wording" that may be causing much of the opposition to the ordinance.

The ordinance "won't give the right of entry," said Thompson at a meeting of the Lancaster County Young Republicans, even though the clause is headed by those words.

Thompson noted that the city inspector cannot enter a house without a court order if the owner or occupant previously refused entry, thus nullifying any actual "right of entry."

Illegal

Carl Kopines of the city attorney's office explained that the right-of-entry clause was changed to meet the guidelines of the U.S. Supreme Court decision of June 5, 1967, making forcible right of entry illegal.

Calling the ordinance "a home-grown ordinance for a home-grown problem," Thompson said it "bends over backward to protect the rights of people."

Omaha Campus To 'Outgrow' University If NU, OU Merge

Gov. Norbert T. Tiemann predicted Friday that if the proposed merger of the Universities of Nebraska and Omaha takes effect, the Omaha campus will eventually become a bigger educational complex than N.U.'s Lincoln operation.

"I'll probably be criticized for saying that, but at some point in time it will happen. The growth of the Omaha school will be phenomenal," the governor said.

Omaha voters will ballot on the merger plan, approved by the 1967 Legislature, at a Dec. 12 election. The opposition is led by State Sen. Henry F. Pedersen Jr. of Omaha.

Tiemann, addressing a noon meeting of the downtown Lincoln Kiwanis Club, said the consolidation would be the best thing that ever happened to higher education in Nebraska.

"This merger will accomplish great efficiency. It will be a major impetus to the development of our higher education system to a level of tremendous excellence," the Governor added.

If Omaha voters consent to the merger, O. U. will become the University of Nebraska at Omaha on July 1, 1968. The O. U. Board of Regents would be automatically dissolved and the N.U. Board of Regents would appoint a chief administrator.

3 Prisoners Cause Ruckus In Hunt For Missing Spoon

Three federal prisoners at the city jail created a disturbance after police conducted a search for a missing spoon in their cell, police reported Friday.

The spoon was found missing in one particular cell after feeding time, and police checked for the spoon three times, officials said.

After getting no information the third time, all bedding, cigarettes, books and personal affects were taken from the cell.

Flooded Cell

The three prisoners began shaking water pipes, jumping on radiators and then flooded the cell with water that ran down through the ceiling to the cells below, police said.

Another prisoner was attacked by the three after he tried three times, to shut off the water, police said.

A prisoner told police the three men involved in the disturbance took the spoon. He reported that after police had requested the spoon the first time, the men broke the handle from the spoon, flushed the large part down the toilet and stuck the handle through the screen on the cell window, police said.

"There are some self-styled

WORLD SERIES RECONVENES TODAY

...Cardinals Match Briles Against Red Sox' Bell In Third Game

St. Louis (AP) — The favored St. Louis Cardinals will match young Nelson Briles, a bullpen graduate with nine straight wins, against Boston's Gary Bell, a veteran of 10 big league seasons, Saturday afternoon in the third game of a World Series that is all even after the first two. A soft rain dripped down on both the Cardinals and the Red Sox Friday as they limbered up at Busch Stadium on the off day in the schedule. The weatherman forecast a possibility of showers for the weekend games. However, it would take real heavy weather before any games would be called off, especially on a big television weekend. Red Schoendienst, manager of the Cardinals, plans no changes in his line-up that batted out 10 hits in the opener but was held to one lone double by Jim Lonborg's pitching in the second game. Red hopes a return to familiar surroundings in the 49,450-capacity park will act as a tonic for the Cards' .177 team batting average.

Orlando Cepeda's failure to hit safely in the first two games has been an anchor around the neck of the Cards' attack. The Baby Bull from Puerto Rico, who batted .325 and led the National League with 111 runs batted in hasn't a hit in seven at bats.

This slump has recalled memories of his .158 hitting for the San Francisco Giants in the 1962 series. Tim McCarver also is hitless in six at bats and Curt Flood and Roger Maris each has only one hit. Lou Brock's four hits in the opener and .500 average make him far and away the leader.

Boston thinks its sluggers woke up Thursday with those two booming homers by Carl Yastrzemski, the slugger who carried the Sox on his shoulders all season. George Scott at .429, Yaz at .375 and Dalton Jones at .333 are the big men in Boston's line-up which averages .234.

Manager Dick Williams plans to continue with the same batting order that won Thursday. That means Jose Tartabull again will be in right field in place of Ken Harrelson and Elston Howard will catch for Russ Gibson. Williams has his pitching all set up through Monday, having proclaimed that Lonborg will wrap it up Monday. Jose Santiago, opening loser, will work Sunday.

The Cards are expected to follow Briles with Bob Gibson in Sunday's game in order to get a maximum of three starts with three days rest each time for Gibson if the Series goes seven games.

Schoendienst talks of Gibson or young Steve Carlton Sunday but everybody expects him to go to Gibson, who struck out 10 Red Sox and won the opener 2-1. Carlton, a tall lefty, will pitch the Monday game if Gibson goes Sunday.

Briles is the young man, 24, who marched out of the Cardinal bullpen to take over a regular starting job after Gibson suffered a broken right leg in mid-July. As a relief man, Briles was 4-3, as a starter 10-2, for a season total of 14-5. He has won nine in a row with a couple of no decisions mixed in.

Like his rival of Saturday, Briles is a right-hander who throws hard. He says his fast ball is his best pitch although he mixed them up with a slider and curve from the no-windup delivery he learned from pitching coach Bill Muffet.

A handsome dark-haired youngster who spent two years at Santa Clara as a language major, Briles once played the Joe Hardy lead role in a high school version of Damn Yankees.

Bell, 30, is a product of the Cleveland Indian's organization. The Red Sox acquired him June 4 in a trade that sent first baseman Tony Horton and outfielder Don Demeter to the Indians. Bell was 1-5 at Cleveland but became a '2-8 winner at Boston for a 13-13 season.

Texans To Test NWU Defense

Sherman, Tex.—The sky over Sherman is likely to be filled with footballs this afternoon.

And the result will be a tough test for the proud defensive unit of the Nebraska Wesleyan football team.

Sophomore Wesley Eben has taken over the quarterbacking chores for the Austin College Kangaroos and this in itself tells quite a story.

Last year Eben shared his job with the more experienced Fred Maples. During that campaign Maples passed 114 times and hit on 57 for a 50% and gained 630 yards with six TD tosses.

Eben meanwhile, then only a freshman, connected on 49 of his 90 passes for 769 yards, five touchdowns and a 54.4%. The two flingers sent the pigskin sailing 204 times in nine games.

However, Maples lost his job. He is now a split end and is on the receiving end of Eben's passes as head coach Floyd Goss is using both of his stars.

The Austin club also features senior fullback Mike Maloney who already owns every record in the club's rushing book.

Maloney exploded for 98 yards from scrimmage on one play in 1966 to tie him for the all-time NAIA record. This helped him to a school game record of 228, a season mark of 872 and career yardage of 1680. He has since passed the 2,000 plateau this year and is averaging over 100 yards per game.

This is more than Wesleyan has given three opponents in recording three shutouts thus far. The Plainsmen 'Vigilantes' have allowed just one touchdown.

Gov. Norbert T. Tiemann told newsmen Friday his 12-year-old son and his midget football teammates have come up with a new signal which Nebraska coach Bob Devaney might be interested in.

"The quarterback lines up and says: 'Hup, hup and all that jazz' and they snap on jazz," Tiemann related.

"This is something new. I'm going to express this to Devaney. It may be what will beat Colorado."

Nothing scheduled.

Huskers Hoping To Put Dent In New Era At KSU

By HAL BROWN
Star Sports Editor

Manhattan, Kan.—Nebraska's defending Big Eight football champions will invade this small college town today bent on putting a dent in the new era that Kansas State coach Vince Gibson is trying to build here.

And, of course, nothing would help make the purple carpets in the K-State dressing room more purple than opening the Big Eight season with a win over the defending champions of the past four years.

Gibson has been successful in instilling in his players a winning attitude rather than a looking good philosophy, which many of the gridders admit was the case in past seasons.

The winning idea was first exemplified in the opening 17-7 win over a highly regarded Colorado State. But it was perhaps better illustrated in last week's 15-3 setback to a powerful Virginia Tech team.

In this one, the Wildcats were trailing, 9-3, late in the game when they tried a pass that was intercepted and run back for an easy touchdown.

"We could have settled for a 9-3 loss," Gibson explains. "But we're not out there to look good. We're out there to win. If the pass had worked, we might have scored afterward. We might have won the game, 10-9."

The Wildcats, while not deep in quality, do have some all-conference caliber individuals.

Tailback Cornelius Davis, for instance, is rated as one of the most dangerous runners in the league and has picked up 153 yards on 41 carries this season.

Quarterback Bill Nossek is the league's leading passer, completing 19 of 35 attempts for 298 yards and one touchdown.

The Wildcats have the Big Eight's top two pass receivers in Dave Jones with nine catches for 131 yards and Art Stro-zier with eight receptions for 127 yards.

And they have the nation's leading punter in Bob Coble with a 46.7 average, a definite factor in keeping the foe from starting any drive with good field position.

And this list doesn't even include linebacker Danny Lankas, whom Gibson feels will miss being all-American only if his teammates have a bad season.

These players all are returning and with a more positive attitude than a year ago when they nearly beat the Huskers in Lincoln before losing, 21-10.

"This will be a much tougher K-State team than we've ever played before," says Nebraska coach Bob Devaney.

"They've got all the outstanding players back from a team that could have — and almost did — beat us last year in Lincoln."

"We know they'll be all pepped up, so we will have to be ready for a maximum effort."

While the K-Staters have some glittering individuals, they don't have the solidarity nor the experience at winning the Huskers have on their side.

Nebraska has no conference statistical leaders as does Kansas State, but Devaney's preference for balance cuts down on statistical leaders from Husker squads.

But the Huskers do have a fine array of running backs, led by Dick Davis, Ben Gregory and Joe Orndun, some adequate pass catchers in Tom Penney, Dennis Morrison and Dennis Richnaffsky, and an improving quarterback in sophomore Frank Patrick.

This, plus a defensive line that has been a mite stingy, allowing only 123 rushing yards in two games, makes the Huskers a favorite to get off the blocks in the Big Eight chase with a victory.

For the third straight week, the Huskers will be playing before a sellout crowd with the 22,500-seat K-State Stadium expected to be packed.

Last-Minute Heroics Lift Crete Past York

... 13-7 HOMECOMING WIN

By DEAN TERRILL
 Southeast Nebraska Bureau
 Crete — The hometown Cardinals outlathered York, 13-7, here Friday night saving their Homecoming best for the very last.
 That was a 21-yard touchdown pass, Maynard Schnell to John Vernon, with a mere 43 seconds remaining. The same slinging quarterback just before intercepted a York aerial to earn the desperation drive.

 Until the late surprise both teams had been bogged down through much of the second half. Showers, varying from drizzle to downpour, brought numerous ball swaps that scuttled any sustained drives. Opening play was quite a different story with the Cardinals powering to a TD the second time they had the ball.

 Vernon plunged one yard to end the 50-yard march after alternating handoffs with 194-pound fullback Bob Bals. Randy Brothorst ran for the extra point.

Coach Jerry Yowell's single-wingers then capitalized on a fourth down pass that positioned them at midfield early in the second quarter.

York speedster Sherdal Lewis passed to Doug Edwards for one first down, then scooted for another on the next play.

Randy Chambers then started ramrodding from the 17-yard line and took his 148 pounds across from the one, eight minutes before the half. The conversion was by end Larry Christensen, who tried two field goals later and came close on one.

A break that could have bounced things the other way fizzled shortly before Crete's climactic moment. York's Don Thorn pounced on a Cardinal fumble only 25 yards from the end zone, but the Dukes faltered at the 15.

Limited action by Lewis made considerable difference in the Dukes' offense as he rested an injured leg much of the second half. Coach Terry Discoe's Cardinals, on the other hand, did not have three regulars.

The sidelining of quarterback B. McDowell, end Dave Drevo and center Chuck Ducheck may well be a factor in Crete's disappointing record. Both teams now stand 2-3 in Class B ranks.

Crete managed an 11-8 advantage in first downs.
 Crete—Vernon (2) 1 run, 21 pass from Schnell, PAT—Brothorst run.

St. Louis (A)—Luman Harris was named manager of the Atlanta Braves baseball team Friday, succeeding the fired Billy Hitchcock.

Hitchcock was fired without advance notice Sept. 29 with the Atlanta team mired in seventh place in the National League standings.

NCC Title Game Tonight

Wayne — The 1967 championship of Nebraska College Conference football is likely to be settled tonight in the mid-season match of Wayne State and Kearney State.

Defending champion Wayne and Kearney both will bring 1-0 NCC records to the 7:30 game in Wayne's stadium.

Barring upsets later, the winner probably will claim the conference crown at season's end.

Wayne coach John Jermier told a Second Guessers Club crowd Thursday, "We are treating this as another game, not trying to get the team 'up' for it. But everybody knows Kearney always has a fine team, and we expect to be ready."

NU Harriers Open Season

Nebraska's cross-country track team will open its 1967 season Oct. 14 at Kansas State, coach Frank Sevigne said Friday.

Sevigne said this year's Cornhusker squad lacks experience. Top candidates are juniors Don Bishoff, Phil Madcalf, Kent Radke and Gregg Young, and sophomores Mel Campbell, Mike Randal and Bob Tupper.

"We won't be a bad team this year but I doubt if we will upset Villanova in the National Collegiate Athletic Association (NCAA) meet," Sevigne said.

The rest of the schedule: Colorado, Oct. 21; at Missouri, Oct. 28; Iowa State, Nov. 4; Big Eight meet at Boulder, Colo., Nov. 10.

Chargers' Paul Lowe Suspended Indefinitely

San Diego, Calif. (A)—Paul Lowe, the American Football League's all-time leading rusher, was suspended indefinitely and fined $1,000 Friday by the San Diego Chargers.

Charger general manager-coach Sid Gillman announced the action but did not specify the reason. The 30-year-old halfback said it was because he was late to a team meeting.

"Paul Lowe has been suspended indefinitely without pay and fined $1,000, said Gillman. "This young man just seems to feel we have rules for the squad and separate rules for him. We just will not work that way."

Lowe, who was waived as injured last week with a pulled hamstring muscle, was late for a squad meeting which began at 9 a.m. Friday. He

'Inter-Basin Diversion Study' Asked By Irrigation Group

By GLENN KREUSCHER
Farm Editor

A resolution asking for research and study to determine the feasibility of inter-basin diversion in Nebraska was passed Friday by the Nebraska State Irrigation Association.

In the conclusion of the group's annual joint convention here with the Nebraska Reclamation Association, the irrigation group asked the Nebraska Soil and Water Conservation Commission and the Legislative Council Interim Water Study Committee to determine the feasibility of making inter-basin diversion legal in Nebraska.

The issue had attracted attention Thursday when the York County Ground Water Conservation District requested a resolution putting the association on record in support of the transfer of water into the Big Blue River basin for the purpose of ground water recharge.

Other solutions passed Friday included:

- A recommendation for stepped-up studies and research to the end that Nebraska will not become depleted in stream flow and ground water supply such as has already happened in other areas of the U.S.

- Encouraged the Agricultural Engineering Department of the University of Nebraska to provide additional area irrigation specialists to be stationed at Scottsbluff, Concord and North Platte to serve the surrounding areas.

- Urged early approval of

Hoyt

the O'Neill Irrigation Project by the Bureau of the Budget so the same can be presented to the next session of Congress for approval.

- Asked that the authority of watershed planning boards be spelled out more clearly and in greater detail than under existing legislation and that planning boards be financed in part or wholly through the Nebraska Soil and Water Conservation Commission.

- Favored and promoted the maintenance of the status quo of present preference in water uses as defined in the constitution of the State of Nebraska.

- Urged the Nebraska Conservation and Survey Division to make a thorough study of lowering water levels and to encourage the Water Resources Research Institute to carry on research in the field of ground water recharge.

- Urged the Nebraska Legislature to include funds in its next budget for an experiment station in South Central Nebraska for irrigation research.

- That agricultural research service be requested to implement with all possible speed an investigation of the intake rate problem in the Blue River Basin.

The irrigation association named Ted Johnson of Holdrege and the Nebraska Reclamation Association named Cloyd F. Hoyt of McCook presidents of their respective organizations Friday.

Senator Stanley Matzke of Milford, long-time treasurer for the irrigation group, asked to be relieved of his duties. The group then added the treasurer's duties to those of their secretary, Don Long of Holdrege.

Other officers named by the irrigators were A. C. Splattsoesser of Red Cloud, first vice president, and William Longs of McCook, second vice president.

The reclamation group chose Ford K. Jacobsen of Omaha for vice president, Willa Ingram of Lincoln, secretary-treasurer, and Stanley Matzke of Milford, executive director.

First District Congressman Robert V. Denney, in speaking to a noon luncheon of the irrigation and reclamation groups, said, "Next to the threat of nuclear war, the projected food scarcity has been described as mankind's greatest problem."

Denney said his votes in Congress would go for the long-range programs that provide a decent return on investment and return for labor to the farmer with control kept in the hands of the people in agriculture.

E. C. "Gene" Reed of the State Conservation and Survey Division told the group that he "was concerned that the butcher, the baker and the candlestick maker — everyone except the pump irrigator and the groundwater hydrologist — are going to determine how the use of Nebraska's groundwater is to be controlled."

The Bible says for us not to neglect church attendance, Heb. 10:25. Here we find a family on the way up the steps to an hour of worship. The church is the strongest dyke against corruption and the evil forces that destroy human life. The church is the foe of the penitentiary. Jesus said, "I will build my church and the gates of hell shall not prevail against it," Matt. 16:18.

The church is not perfect... nothing human ever is. Even the Apostles chosen by Jesus had a Judas, but see the success He made of the other eleven. Christ loved the church enough to die for it and that makes it mighty important. Whether people worship in a tent, tabernacle or cathedral, they mean to be on God's side. Church-going people are people of Faith. Do you go to church?
